“ I worked with Mrs. Shelton in the laundry at Walker Hospital when I was 13 years old. She always called everyone sweetie, but she was the sweetie. My mother, Caroline Martin, talked her into teaching me how to sew when I was in 6th grade. I made all my cloths for school and took Family and Consumer Science/ Health, Physical Education and Recreation in College. The skills I learned from Mrs. Shelton have helped me get through sewing classes in College and I am currently teaching sewing to students at the Teen Parent Program at Ridge Technical College near Haines City. I think of her often and thought she would have been happy to know that her kindness in teaching me to sew has been passed on to hundreds of students. Now at least her loved ones will know about this and she was just a wonderful loving person that I was lucky to have known.

God Bless You All, Ruthie (Martin) Karr
