“ I was Jesse's step sister for a while. I have known and loved her since I met her when she was about 8-9 yr old (somewhere around that age). She was always so beautiful, smart, spoiled rotten haha, but a super kid. She went through a dark time but came out of it and married a good guy and got her kids back and was happy. I was so proud of her and told her so. I am about 10 yr older than she was but when I was able years ago, we would ride around and just hang out...she was so much fun...even in the last few years, I couldn't physically visit with her much but I always watched for her posts on facebook. You never knew what she would post lol...which made it interesting. Sometimes funny, sometimes a rant, you just never knew...but you could be sure that if you knew her you loved her. She was and still is and always will be loved by so many. One fun memory I have of her is when she was about 11-12 she was saying something to me about her cat and mentioned something about his testicles but she said don't you see his "tentacles" lol that was so cute and she always had a good (yes sometimes crazy) sense of humor. She had a good heart and loved people and animals. I hope and pray she is resting in the arms of Jesus with her grandpa who she loved very much as he loved her too. Oh, I am crying as I write this (have been since yesterday) but thought of another memory that is cute and I will share (I have many but not enough space) she was playing with grapefruit one time when she was about 10 and always said she wanted big boobs lol that was just her and she shoved them down her shirt and stood with her back flat against a doorway and poked them "grapefruit" out and said something to the effect that now she looked like Dolly Parton. It was just cute. I can't believe she is gone. It is hard to take. So suddenly...I think it would have been easier if I knew she was sick or something (could have expected it) but I know memories and love will never die. She is no more pain and happy now...I pray. My condolences go to all her family and friends (I am one of both). I hope something good comes out of this situation...such as people learn to make every second count and there is no guarantee you have tomorrow. Never take anyone or anything for granted and NEVER go to bed angry/frustrated.

*With love always,
Vicki McBride.*
