“ As I remember my Uncle John H, I think about how quick he was to smile and laugh. He loved to tell funny stories and remembered them in such detail, with names and locations!

I remember my daddy, Paul D, scaring him when our families went to Nocalula Falls together. He knew John H was scared of snakes, and when he saw a long ominous looking stick close to him on the ground, he kicked it toward John H and shouted, "That's not a snake!" John H moved those great long legs of his up and down and ran! I think he laughed the most when he found out it wasn't real. He still fussed at Daddy, though.

Most of all, I will always remember how happy he was to see me whenever I came. I know he loved me and all his family and friends. I love you uncle John H! We will see you again.
