“ *To the man that everyone loved,
His name was no secret,
He made it well known,
To help others when he had nothing,
A warriors name but that can change,
Choices of the world can falter any man,
Drugs and women that had no shame,
Gave clearly to his agony and pain,
Baggies in hand it begins again,
The roller coaster ride takes over again,
Until Superman says it's over man,
Heads hung low, we all know,
He was a man we thought we did know,
With a son at home that needed you,
Lost and alone he's doing his best to,
My love was not enough to show loves true,
I just hope I never lose him to you,
A man he's become, you would be proud to.
I will always love you*

Michael I miss you more than you will ever know. I think about you everyday. I sometimes wonder how to go on without you. I lit you a green candle in remembrance of Swamp Thing. The fun we had in that old truck was amazing. I don't know how to go on without you. At least I talk to you everyday before. I'm proud to know that you called me your wife. I would never have thought that. Love you to the moon & back. I will see you one day.

“ Michael was a close friend of my brother Allen. They were friends for over 27 years. He was my neighbor. He would do anything to help someone that needed help. They say God doesn't give us more than we can handle. Well I believe God doesn't but life does. When things got to be to much the angels surrounded him as God came & carried him home. RIP Michael. Gone but never forgotten
